SECTION 14 — PRE-EXISTING MEDICAL CONDITIONS (full text)

- 14.1 Definition. A pre-existing medical condition is any disease, illness, or injury for which you have received medication, advice, or treatment, or for which you have experienced symptoms, whether diagnosed or not, at any time before the start date of your policy.
- 14.2 Declared Conditions. Where you have declared a pre-existing medical condition through our medical screening process and we have accepted it (with or without additional premium), that condition is covered subject to the terms of this policy, provided there has been no material change in the condition between the date of screening and the date of travel.

14.3 Exclusion. We will not cover any claim arising directly or indirectly from a pre-existing medical condition unless declared and accepted in writing at the time of purchase. For the avoidance of doubt, this exclusion extends to any acute event, complication, or deterioration that is causally related to, or materially contributed to by, an undeclared pre-existing condition.

14.4 Causal Connection. Where a declared pre-existing condition is a recognised risk factor for, but not the direct cause of, an acute medical event, coverage shall be determined on a case-by-case basis having regard to: (a) the nature and severity of the pre-existing condition; (b) the degree of medical control at the time of travel; (c) the opinion of the treating physician as to the causal relationship; and (d) any relevant medical literature.

14.5 Burden of Proof. The policyholder bears the burden of demonstrating that an acute event is not causally related to an undeclared pre-existing condition. Where a condition was declared and accepted, the insurer bears the burden of demonstrating that the exclusion under 14.3 applies.

SECTION 22 — REPATRIATION

22.1 We will arrange and pay for your repatriation to the United Kingdom if our medical team, in consultation with the treating physician, determines that repatriation is medically necessary and can be safely undertaken.

22.2 The method of repatriation (commercial flight, commercial flight with medical escort, or air ambulance) shall be determined by our medical team based on clinical need. Cost alone shall not be the determining factor, but we reserve the right to choose the most cost-effective option that meets the clinical requirements.
